REMARKS BY HON. J. LEWIS THOMPSON.

On motion of Mr. Thompson, by unanimous consent, the following statement was ordered printed in the Journal:

"The resolution which I have introduced, making ministers of the Gospel and priests of any denomination ineligible to the office of Governor or to a seat in either branch of the Legislature, has ample precedent in the constitutional history of this State. Article 5 of the first Constitution of the Republic of Texas, which was drafted in 1836, read as follows:

"Constitution of the Republic, Article V: Ministers of the Gospel being, by their profession, dedicated to God and the care of souls, ought not to be diverted from the great duties of their functions; therefore, no minister of the Gospel or priest of any denomination whatever shall be eligible to the office of the Executive of the Republic nor to a seat in either branch of the Congress of the same."

"The president of this great convention was Richard Ellis of Red River county, and among the Fathers of Texas who composed the committee to draft the Constitution, of which this provision was an integral part, were the following: Parmer, Potter, Stewart, Waller, Grimes, Coleman, Fisher, Buntton, Gaines, De Zavala, Everett, Harde-man, Stepp, Crawford, West, Powers, Navarro, McKinney, Menifee, Motley and Menard.

"In the Constitution of 1845, this provision was carried forward:

"Sec. 27, Article 111: Ministers of the Gospel, being by their profession dedicated to God and the care of souls, ought not to be diverted from the great duties of their functions; therefore, no minister of the Gospel or priest of any denomination whatever shall be eligible to the Legislature."

"The convention adopting this provision was presided over by Thomas J. Rusk, a personal friend of my father, and a man whose memory is revered by every Texan. The committee on general provisions of the Constitution of 1845 contained the following distinguished men: Van Zandt, Baylor, Clark, Holland, Lewis, Love, Mayfield, Moore, Miller, McNeill, Rains, Smyth, Standefer, Taylor, Wood—most of whom were known to and were associates of my father.

"In the convention of 1861, presided over by Oran M. Roberts, 'the Old Alcalde' carried forward the identical provision contained in the Constitution of 1845. The committee to draft the Constitution of 1861 was composed of Wiley, Runnels, Graham of Rusk, Jennings, Maxey, Poag, Coke, Stockdale, Scurry and Anderson of Colorado.

"Be it remembered that this Constitution was drawn at the dawn and in the spirit of the Southern Confederacy.

"In 1866, when J. W. Throckmorton presided over the convention, a committee composed of Hancock, Reeves, Randolph, Ledbetter, Armstrong, Bumpass, Wilson, Halbert, Shepard, Shields, Walker, Smith of Colorado, Drake, retained this identical provision at a time when Texas was struggling to begin anew as a State emerging from the reconstruction of the Civil War.

"These were the men—most of them so great that the names of the counties of this State commemorate their memories, who wrote into the fundamental law of Texas the provision which I now seek to give the people an opportunity to re-insert.

"It was not such men who removed this provision; on the contrary, it was first omitted in the convention of 1868, presided over by E. J. Davis of infamous memory. At the time when this convention met, Texans worthy of the name were ground beneath the power of the scalawag and carpet-bagger, and those good and honest Republicans who were members of the convention were powerless before their less reputable colleagues. The following negroes were members of the convention which omitted the provision: G. T. Ruby, Johnson, J. H. Washington, Ben O. Watrous, B. F. Williams, C. W. Bryant, S. Curtis, M. Kendall, R. Long.

"I submit that the people of this State, if permitted an opportunity by the submission of my resolution to a popular vote, will endorse the wisdom of the great men of Texas history rather than the will of a black-and-tan convention."
